

TA for OD

Relations

The TA for OD program is a fantastic opportunity to deepen your knowledge and understanding of interpersonal relationships, group dynamics, and also intra-psychic processes in a phased out and structured manner - critical concepts, that help us to appreciate the nuances of human behaviour and how they play out in an organisational context. What makes the learning process richer is not just the structure of the course but also the wealth of interactions with fellow HR professionals that add immense value. With this course practicing managers, organization consultants, trainers and teachers of organisational behaviour can augment their professional development endeavors.

Learning and application of Transactional Analysis for organization development includes:

- Enhancing team effectiveness, communication and cohesion
- Leading and managing group processes
- Diagnosing organization culture and facilitating change
- Managing people and processes during change and transformation
- Understanding and dealing with the dynamics of organizational power play and politics

TA for OD begins with understanding and changing self and progresses to interpersonal, group, and organisational change and development

TA for OD Testimonials

“Suriya’s accurate insight during supervision is something to be experienced. He exposed us to many models that allowed us apply TA very systematically in an organizational context and experience how theories come to life in organizational interactions. I began to enjoy and consciously use TA in my everyday work – coaching, training, consulting and managing my own team.”

*Aruna Gopakumar
Director, Novartis*

“TA has been a wonderful learning process for me. I used it to mould my behaviour, thinking process and ability to deal with people personally. Professionally it was wonderful to see how better I could understand people and situations and how I developed the ability to look at things differently.”

*Chitra Swamy
Head-Consulting Services, The Skill Studio*

“The TA for OD group combines learning TA theory with the experience sharing by the OD/training heads in various organizations. This gives a complete new dimension to the learning. The theory, structure of the programme and the facilitation add a lot of value to me as a person and professional.”

*Deepak Patil
DGM, Leadership & Management Development
Firstsource Solutions Ltd*

“I travelled every month from Chennai to Bangalore to attend the one year course conducted by Physis on organisational transactional analysis. It was fruitful experience and I gained growth in personal and professional life. I enjoyed the experiential learning process and understood how to use transactional analysis for organisational development.”

*A Geethan
Psychotherapist, Trainer and Systemic Coach*

“I have found the TA for OD group to be very useful in building my skills as a trainer, since it enabled me to apply TA to work with myself. Using the TA framework has helped in understanding and managing client relationships and group dynamics with my training groups.”

*Kalpana Tatavarti
Consultant, Maarpidi*

“From the word go, I was mesmerised by the depth in which TA can be applied in an organisational setting. I found the entire curriculum, which ranged through theory, concepts, models and applications apt not only in my Corporate role but also in my role as a Trainer/Facilitator. This course is highly recommended to HR professionals, Trainers, Facilitators and any individuals in the corporate world.”

*Colleen D’souza
Divisional Manager, Human Resources
Mercedes-Benz India Pvt. Ltd., Pune*

The past 18 months of the journey has been an exciting adventure unravelling our own self and discovering ourselves once again! The openness of the group, the sharing and learning from each other as a format makes the program rich and meaningful. Testimony to this is the fact that we look forward to the sessions after a packed and hectic schedule and go back completely rejuvenated on a Sunday evening!!

*Suchitra Bhaskar
Director, Learning & Organisational Development
CRISIL Limited, A Standard & Poors Co.*

TA for OD intervention is very well planned, with sufficient time for concepts, supervision, and field work. The tools and concepts are easy to understand and yet, profound in their applications. The participants get enough time to apply their understanding in the field, and get ample supervision to clarify doubts and become assured of their strengths.
